ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A user interface for red-eye removal allows a user selectively to accept or reject red-eye removal in candidate red-eye regions that are automatically detected in a digital image and presented to the user. A modified digital image may be produced and saved in which red-eye removal is performed in the candidate red-eye regions the user accepts.

5